16 An object has a constant temperature.

Which statement is correct?

A There is no energy transfer to or from the object.

B The rate at which the object receives energy is the same as the rate at which it transfers energy away.

C The rate at which the object receives energy is smaller than the rate at which it transfers energy away.

D The rate at which the object receives energy is greater than the rate at which it transfers energy away.