38 What happens when a protostar becomes a stable star?

A Most of the hydrogen is converted to helium and the protostar expands.

B The inward force due to gravity is balanced by an outward force due to the high temperature.

C The protostar collapses due to gravity and the temperature increases.

D The protostar runs out of hydrogen as fuel for the nuclear reaction.