31 In an experiment, strong magnetic fields provide a force that keeps charged particles moving with a horizontal circular motion.

Positive particles are accelerated clockwise when viewed from above as shown.

In which direction is the magnetic field?

A vertically into the page

B vertically out of the page

C pointing away from the centre of the circular motion

D pointing towards the centre of the circular motion