12 The distance between two electricity pylons is 60 m. The cable that connects the two pylons is 62 m in length.

Why is the cable longer than the distance between the two pylons?

A to allow for contraction of the cable in cold weather

B to create a slope in the cable for electrons to flow down

C to keep the current low and the voltage high

D to reduce magnetic fields around the cable