35 A piece of conducting putty (modelling clay) of constant resistivity is formed into a cylindrical shape.

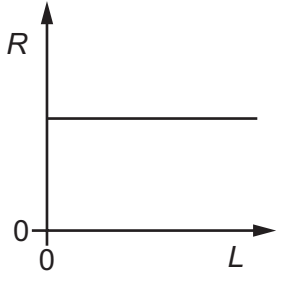

The resistance R between its flat ends (shaded) is measured.

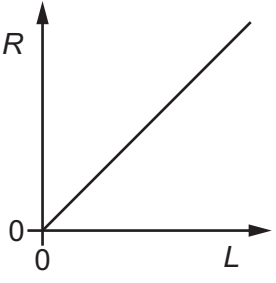

The same volume of putty is re-formed into cylinders of different lengths L, and the resistance R between the flat ends is measured for each value of L.

Which graph best shows the variation of R with L?

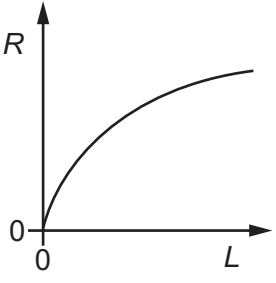

A

B

C

D

