16 What is meant by the efficiency of a system?

A the total energy input to the system divided by the useful energy output by the system

B the useful energy output from the system divided by the energy wasted by the system

C the useful energy output from the system divided by the total energy input to the system

D the energy wasted by the system divided by the total energy input to the system