2 Which statement about vector quantities is correct?

A Acceleration of free fall is a vector quantity because it has a constant magnitude.

B Temperature in °C is a vector quantity because it can be positive or negative.

C Time is a vector quantity because it can only go in the forwards direction.

D Weight is a vector quantity because it has a direction.