38 A radiographer works in an area where there is a radioactive source.

The radiographer wears a lead apron.

How does the apron act as a safety precaution?

A It increases the distance between the radiographer and the source.

B It reduces the time that the radiographer is exposed to radiation.

C It shields the radiographer by absorbing some of the radiation.

D It stops radiation reaching the radiographer by reflecting the radiation.

PapaCambridge papacambridge.com