27 A resistor is connected to a cell so that there is a current from the positive terminal of the cell to the negative terminal.

What causes the current in the resistor?

A electrons moving from the negative terminal of the cell to the positive terminal

B electrons moving from the positive terminal of the cell to the negative terminal

C protons moving from the negative terminal of the cell to the positive terminal

D protons moving from the positive terminal of the cell to the negative terminal